Weather for 1906.

W. W. Marsh, the Winston Place Prophet, who rarely misses in his prognostications, has this to say concerning the coming year: "The year 1906 will be a very prosperous year in the commercial line; great prosperity prevailing over the entire country—the year will be free from wars; peace over the entire world. The storms during the year will be disastrous, both on land and water, causing much destruction on the great bodies of water, Atlantic Ocean, Great Lakes, Gulf of Mexico and states adjoining. Great storms over Southern and Gulf States and the Eastern and New England States, the West and Northwest. Cyclones and heavy rains will do much damage, with floods over the states west of the Mississippi river, especially over Kansas, Wisconsin, Nebraska and along western streams in the month of June. There will be a shortage in the wheat and corn crops on account of early killing frosts during fall months, and droughts during the summer months. The spring will be late and the fall an early one, with killing frosts. The summer hot, with intense heat. The winter will not be a severe winter, but an open one. The winter storms will be severe, and occasional cold waves will prevail in all sections of the country, but of short duration. During the month of January, 1906, severe winter storms will prevail in all sections of the country, the snowfall being quite heavy over the states west of Mississippi, the Eastern and New England States and the North Atlantic coast, lake regions and the Northern States, Northern Ohio and Pennsylvania and Virginia. Traffic will suffer over the East, West, Southwest and Northwest on account of snow blockades. February, 1906, will be an open month. The weather during this month will be mild, with occasional cold waves and snow, but the precipitation will consist of heavy rains. Floods will occur during February and March, and very high water in June. The month of March will be an old-fashioned March, with many changes. The cotton crop during 1906 will be short on account of heavy rainfall and high water over the cotton districts. Especially heavy rainfall over Central, Western and Eastern Texas, Mississippi and Tennessee.

When you want a pleasant laxative take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. For sale by all druggists.

The Key that Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The 85 and 90 years of age are not the rotund well fed, but thin, spare men who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age, will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to cleanse and invigorate his stomach and regulate his liver and bowels. When this is done there is no reason why the average man should not live to old age. For sale by all druggists.

Failed.

All efforts have failed to find a better remedy for coughs, colds and lung troubles than Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough, heals the lungs and prevents serious results from a cold. J. N. Patterson, Nashua, Iowa, writes: "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least half a dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Foley's Honey and Tar and two thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world. Penny's Drug Store."

Miss Bessie O. Marksbury, the charming daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. B. Marksbury, of Lancaster, was married last week to Dr. James Staughton, of Covington. Rev. C. S. Ellis, of the Baptist church, performed the ceremony.

Miss Laura Clay Bennett, daughter of James Bennett, president of the Citizens National Bank of Richmond, grand-daughter of the late Gen. Cassius Marcellus Clay, was married to Erskine Russell Garland, of Huntington, W. Va.

The wedding of Mr. Longworth and Miss Alice Roosevelt will be the first to take place in the White House since the marriage of President Cleveland and Miss Frances Folsom in 1886. That was the first time a president was married in the Executive Mansion, and the occasion was celebrated in a manner to make it long memorable. The marriage interval before that ran back to the wedding in 1874, of Nellie Grant to Algonon Sartoris.

On Thursday evening at 8:30 was solemnized the wedding of Miss Lillie Tevis Peyton and Mr. Samuel Houston Fulkerson. The event took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Peyton, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Buchanan, the Christian minister, assisted by Rev. Abraham of the Episcopalian church. Only the bride's family, a few most intimate friends and the bunch of irrepressibles known to fame as the "Peyton House Boys" were present—one of the latter having graphically described the occasion thusly: "The preacher did a good job, all right and then 'we eat' and then had a rice party. It was 'lovely.'" Mr. and Mrs. Fulkerson left that evening for a trip to New Orleans, via Louisville, after which they will return and make this place their home.—Middlesboro News.

A beautiful home wedding in all its appointments was that of Mr. William Riffe, of Hustonville, and Miss Sadie Stagg, of Lincoln county, which was solemnized yesterday at 12:30 o'clock, at the home of Hon. and Mrs. Robert Harding, on West Main street. The bride is a cousin of Mrs. Harding, and is a daughter of Mrs. Daniel Stagg, of Lincoln county. Mr. Riffe is a prominent young farmer of near Hustonville. The Harding home never looked more beautiful than on this occasion, the decorations in green and white being carried out artistically in the draperies and ices. Long before the appointed hour for the wedding the house was comfortably filled with guests who had responded to the invitation of Mrs. Harding. Just before the arrival of the bridal party Miss Lillian Leavell sang "Call Me Thine Own" in an impressive manner, and her sweet voice seemed at its best. Miss Ramsey presided at the piano, and played the ever-popular wedding march from Lohengrin while the bridal party came in. Rev. P. F. Ross, of Stanford, the officiating minister, led the way to where the ceremony was to be performed, followed by the attendants, Messrs. George Crow and Steve K. Vaught. The Matrons of Honor, Mrs. Robert Harding and Mrs. Daniel Stagg, came next and these were followed by the bride on the arm of her fiancé. The Methodist ceremony was said by Rev. Ross, after which Miss Ramsey played "Annie Laurie" while the bride and groom received congratulations from those present. The guests afterwards repaired to the dining room, where an elegant buffet luncheon was served. After lunch the bride's cake was brought in and each young lady and gentleman took a hand and cut. The thimble went to Miss Adele Feland, the ring to Miss Lucy Spears, the darning needle to Dr. Jackson and the dime to Mr. George Crow. The cutting afforded much pleasure to the assembled guests.—Advocate.
